Jury Brought in Verdict for Dwight Spicer in Bozrah Case-Was Sued by Sherwood G. Avery-He Will Take Ap-

After having the case under consideration for about three-quarters of an hour, the jury in the superior court here on Thursday afternoon brought in a verdict for the defendant in the wood cutting case of Sherwood G. Avery against Dwight Spicer of Bozrah and George L. Ingalls, who had bought wood from Mr. Spicer, and who, it was charged in the complaint, had cut over on to land belonging to Mr. Avery. The question brought up in the course of the trial involved the boundary lines of a triangular piece of property which Mr. Avery claimed belonged to him but which Mr. Spicer claimed had been in the holdings of the Spicer family for years.

Mr. Avery claimed had been in which Mr. Spicer claimed had been in the holdings of the Spicer family for the holdings of the Spicer family for the short calendar session. The claim for $1,000 damages was made, and it was claimed that 18 large trees and 382 small trees were cut and carried away. It was stated by Attorney C. W. Comstock, counsel for Mr. Avery, that the case would be appealed to the supreme court.
